DIVORCE GRANTED TO MRS. IDA B. LEECH.

Peter Hiner Wants to Change His Boarding Place After Over Three Years in Jail.

The June Argument Court was Donald P. McPherson and Associate Judges W. Howard Dicks and E. P. Miller presiding, at which the following business was disposed of:

A divorce was granted Ida G. Leech on the ground of desertion. Leech left his wife sixteen years ago, going without any warning or giving any cause for his leaving. Twice he has been back to Gettysburg but never visited his wife and the divorce was recommended by the master taking the testimony. Decree of divorce was entered.

Peter Hiner presented his petition to be discharged from jail and a rule to show cause was issued to be heard on June 28. Hiner has been in jail over three years. His wife had proceeded against him for non-support. There was evidence to show that he had some money at the time and rather than pay any money to his wife under decree of the Court he went to jail and after being a boarder there three years says now he has no money and can not pay his wife anything.

CITED FOR BRAVERY.

Three Adams County Boys of the 79th Honored.

Before demobilization of the 36th Infantry, 79th Division, General Kuhn mentioned three Adams county boys for gallantry in action and meritorious service as follows:

First Sergeant Albert Musselman, of Fairfield, Co. A, 36th Infantry. He held the company together for the last two weeks before the armistice, when Lieut. Dyer was incapacitated by shell shock, October 28 to November 11.

Sergt. Geo. D. Livelsberger, son of Leo Livelsberger, of Edgegrove, a member of the first contingent that left Adams county in September 1917. He was a member of Co. C, 36th Infantry. "On September 28, 1918, five hundred meters north of Montauk, Sergt. Livelsberger, then a corporal, took command of a platoon that had suffered severe losses from enemy machine gun fire, led the platoon around the left flank of an enemy spur trench in which were planted several machine guns, and put his men in a charge upon these guns. As a result of this action, the enemy gunners abandoned their guns and those who were not killed retreated in disorder. The particular group of guns had held up the advance of our troops and, just before being put out of action, had caused the retirement of the company on the right."

Private Abram W. Longenecker, Headquarters Company, 36th Infantry. "Private Longenecker, a regimental runner, worked constantly from the time the regiment took over the Grande Montagne Sector, Hill 378, north of Verdun, from October 28 to November 11. He worked day and night carrying messages from the regimental commander to the battalion and to the front lines, showing unusual bravery and devotion to duty under shell fire. Although weak from the effects of gas and lack of rest, he at all times displayed admirable willingness to carry out the tasks assigned to him."

PROMINENT SON OF ADAMS

MAKES NAME IN 18 YEARS SERVICE IN CONGRESS.

James A. Tawney Given Eulogy by One of the Best Metropolitan Papers of the Country.

Former Congressman James A. Tawney died June 12, as briefly announced in our last issue. Death was due to arterial sclerosis and he had been ill several months. He was 64 years of age. He was a son of the late J. E. and Sarah Tawney and was born in Mt. Pleasant township, this county, and went West in 1888, first to Nebraska, moved to Winona, Minn., where he studied law and was admitted to the bar and later elected to the State Senate and then served 18 years as the Congressman for his district, making a great reputation as Chairman of the House Appropriation Committee.

The "New York Times" on Friday contained the following editorial and eulogy:

In Gettysburg, Pa., a town which once won fame because General Lee retreated from a ridge a mile and a half away from it, a blacksmith had born to him the usual number of sons and daughters. One of these was James A. Tawney, who, as he grew up, looked out upon the general horde of young Tawneys and decided that he would go West and grow up with the country. He settled in Winona, where the first families in Minnesota lived, and promptly proved himself a disturbing element. He worked at the forge until the forge seemed no place for him, and then studied law and went to the State Senate, the first families of Winona remarking with surprise the intrusiveness of the mechanic from Gettysburg. He served in the Legislature just one term, and then he went to Congress.

There he erected an immediate reputation as a trouble-maker. The House machine could do nothing. Only Uncle Joe Cannon looked on him with a fatherly eye; Payne, Dill, Grosvener, and the rest of the sages decided among themselves that young Jim Tawney was too obstreperous and would never do. Mr. Cannon, perhaps as peevish as any of them over the insurrections of Tawney, still liked him in an Assyrian monarch sort of way, and made him Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in 1905.

The first thing that the new Chairman started to do was to lead a revolt against the House machine over the question of Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, and there was much gnashing of teeth among the Elder Statesmen. For a time it seemed as if there would be a new thing among the nations of the earth—a man promoted to membership in the machine who would actually fight the machine. It was a glorious portent, for awhile; but Tawney was no more archangelic than the rest. The time came when the power of the House machine made him throw the Arizona-New Mexico bill aside for the safety of certain appropriation measures he had on hand, and no one who was there will ever forget Delegate Mark Smith's speech for Arizona, in which, striding down the aisle, he thrust his finger almost in Tawney's reddening face and said:

And Joab said unto Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joab's hand; and he smote him therewith, so that his bowels gushed out upon the ground.

But it was a long time ago. Arizona and New Mexico became States, and Mark Smith is now a Senator in Congress. Tawney, the last germ of insurrection gone from his system, tied himself up more and more with the machine, until the great political revolution of 1910. Then he and they and all of them fell, and progressivism marched over them. Some of them, Cannon himself, came back; but Tawney accepted the verdict of the people and stayed out in Winona, practicing law. Now the news comes that he is dead. He was an able Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, a big job then, and a bigger one now. He had brains and acuteness, and he knew how the people's money ought to be spent and tried his best to have it spent that way. It would be a good thing if he were at the head of that committee now.

David Troxell, a life long and highly respected resident of Gettysburg, died on Sunday after an illness of four months, having reached the advanced age of 84 years. 5 months and 15 days. He was a son of the late David and Susan Troxell and lived his entire life in Gettysburg. In early life he had been a victim of a smallpox scourge but recovered after a long illness. He was engaged in the grocery and huckstering business for many years, and when the latter was a large business throughout the country district and he made many friends throughout the county. He was an ardent Democrat all his life, and was elected to the office of County Treasurer. He was a man of high principles and enjoyed the esteem of a wide circle of friends. He was one of the oldest members of the local lodge of Odd Fellows. The funeral was held Wednesday evening with services by Rev. P. R. Pontius, pastor of the Reformed Church of which church he

KURTZ PLAYGROUND

Opens for 1919 Season with a Big, Happy Joyous Time.

Opening Day 1919 for the Kurtz Memorial Playground on Thursday brought out a crowd such as has never been seen before on the playground. More than two thousand of our citizens and children were on the ground having a good time. Boys and girls were in evidence everywhere from the long line of tots waiting their turns for the sliding board to those on the see-saws, swings, may-poles and playing ring, handball, basketball, croquet, to the big boys of the three wards on the baseball diamond, who put up two good games with great spirit. The first Ward won over the Second Ward in the afternoon and the Second Ward putting the same score over the Third Ward in the evening. A crowded grandstand watched the games and there was some thrilling and fine plays pulled off.

Miss Helen Helfrich, of Baltimore, the new Superintendent of Play at the Playground, arrived last Saturday and went to work at once to get a crowd of youngsters to begin the playing and on Monday several hundred children were ready for the games and fun. The teachers of the schools met the children and took them to the playground. Miss Helfrich has been busy morning, afternoon and evening since she has been here and expects to keep things going this way for several weeks until a system has been developed. She had a demonstration of games by the children for Opening Day. A happy lot of kids could not be found under those on the playground. That is the place for the children to go and it will tone up their health like nothing else can do.

The Playground Association provided for the crowd ice cream, cones, sandwiches, pop, and before evening was over sold out all their supplies. A fish pond proved a very attractive feature, yielding the sum of $33.75. The band came out late in the evening and gave an enjoyable concert. Altogether the occasion was one showing that the people of the town were right back of the playground and its development.

Nothing our salesmen can say about the Willys-Knight motor car can be as convincing as the statements of Willys-Knight owners. The man who had driven a Willys-Knight car thousands of miles becomes so enthusiastic over the sleeve-valve motor that he is rarely ever content until he prevails upon his friends to profit by his experience. The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve motor is so ungrudging and unflagging in its performance that it has come to be known as the motor that always runs. The staunch allegiance of Willys-Knight owners has given rise to the expression—"Once a Willys-Knight owner always a Willys-Knight owner."

New Telephone Rates

Local Service Rates

The costs of telephone operation have been rising steadily during the past few years. And now, despite the fact that every possible economy has been introduced, a point has been reached where telephone revenues in Pennsylvania are not sufficient to meet expenses and to provide a reasonable return upon the investment. The situation compels an increase in telephone revenues.

The Company prepared and submitted to the United States Telegraph and Telephone Administration a revised schedule of rates for local service in Pennsylvania which, after careful consideration, was approved by the Federal Authorities and will become effective June 16, 1919.

Accordingly, all rates for local exchange service in Pennsylvania (except local messages originating at public telephones) will be increased 20 per cent. June 16, 1919.

Toll Service Rates

On January 21, 1919, new schedules of toll and long distance rates were established throughout the country by order of the Postmaster General. The application of these schedules to messages originating and terminating within Pennsylvania was set aside on January 29, 1919, by order of a Pennsylvania Court.

The Supreme Court of the United States, on June 2, confirmed the authority of the Postmaster General to regulate all telephone rates. Consequently, the Pennsylvania Court on June 11, 1919, dissolved its injunction of January 29, 1919.

The new rates, therefore, will be applied to all toll and long distance messages from and after May 21, 1919, the beginning of the current toll billing period. All telephone directories issued since January 1 contain the new schedules and an explanation of them. Please consult the front pages of your directory so that you may be familiar with the various classes of toll service that we offer

PAYING THE PRICE OF PEACE

JUSTICE THE ONLY BASIS OF SETTLEMENT OF THE WAR.

Germany Indicted for Wrongs Committed, that the Terms They Must Sign Can Be Understood.

On Monday, June 16th, the Allied Powers, the Germans their order, what they should do and gave five days for their answer. It is likely before our next issue, the Peace Treaty and League of Nations will have been signed. The Germans were told things straight and without diplomatic language. The review of the situation should be read by every American as follows:

"In the view of the Allied and Associated Powers, the war which began on August 1, 1914, was the greatest crime against humanity and freedom of the people that any nation calling itself civilized has ever consciously committed. For many years the rulers of Germany, true to the Prussian tradition, strove for a position of dominance in Europe. They were not satisfied with that growing prosperity and influence to which Germany was entitled, and which all other nations were willing to accord her, or the society of free and equal position.

"They required that they should be able to dictate and tyrannize over a subservient Europe, as they dictated and tyrannized over a subservient Germany. In order to attain their ends they used every channel through which to educate their own subjects in the doctrine that might was right in international affairs. They never ceased to expand armaments by land and sea, and to propagate the falsehood that it was necessary because Germany's neighbors were jealous of her prosperity and power. She sought to sow hostility and suspicion instead of friendship between nations.

"They developed a system of espionage and intrigue through which they were enabled to stir up international rebellion and unrest, and even to make secret offensive preparations within the territory of their neighbors, whereby they might, when the moment came, strike them down with greater certainty and ease. They kept Europe in a ferment by threats of violence, and when they found that their neighbors were resolved to resist their arrogant will they determined to assert their predominance in Europe by force.

"As soon as their preparations were complete, they proclaimed a subservient ally to declare war on Serbia at forty-eight hours' notice, a war involving the control of the Balkans, which they knew could not be localized and which was bound to unchain a general war. In order to make doubly sure, they refused every attempt at conciliation and conference until it was too late and the world war was inevitable for which they had plotted and for which alone among the nations they were adequately equipped and prepared.

Indicted for Inhuman Methods.

"Germany's responsibility, however, is not confined to having planned and started the war. She is no less responsible for the savage and inhuman manner in which it was conducted. Through Germany was herself a guarantee of Belgium, the Allies of Germany violated their solemn promise to respect the neutrality of a neighboring people. Not content with this, they deliberately carried on a series of premeditated shootings and massacres with the sole object of terrifying the inhabitants into submission by the very inhumanity of their action.

"They were the first to use poisonous gas, notwithstanding the appalling suffering it entails. They began the bombing and long distance shelling of towns for no military object, but solely for the purpose of reducing the morale of their opponents by striking at their women and children. They commenced the submarine campaign, with its piratical challenge to international law and its destruction of great numbers of innocent passengers and sailors in midocean, far from succor, at the mercy of the winds and waves, and the yet more ruthless submarine crews.

"They drove thousands of men and women and children with brutal savagery into slavery in foreign lands. They allowed barbarities to be practiced against their prisoners of war from which the most civilized people would have recoiled.

Red Blood

Is good blood—blood that nourishes the whole body, and enables every organ to perform its functions naturally. Many people owe it to HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, which relieves scrofula, eczema, psoriasis, and all blood humors.

"The conduct of Germany is almost unexampled in human history. The terrible responsibility which lies at her doors can be seen in the fact that not less than 7,000,000 dead lie buried in Europe, while more than 20,000,000 others carry upon them the evidence of wounds and suffering, because Germany saw fit to gratify her lust for tyranny by a resort to war.

"The allied and associated powers believe that they will be false to those who have given their all to save the freedom of the world if they consent to treat the war on any other basis than as a crime against humanity and right.

Demands Justice for All.

"Justice, therefore, is the only possible basis for the settlement of the arguments of this terrible war. Justice is what the German delegation asks for, and says that Germany has been persecuted. But it must be justice for all.

"There must be justice for the dead and wounded, and for those who have been orphaned and bereaved, that Europe might be free from Prussian domination. There must be justice for the people who now stagger under war debts which exceed $100,000,000,000 that liberty might have saved. There must be justice for the millions whose homes and lands and property German savagery has spoliated and destroyed.

"This is why the Allied and Associated Powers have insisted as a cardinal feature of the treaty that Germany must undertake to make reparation to the very uttermost of her power for reparation for wrongs inflicted is of the essence of justice. That is why they insist that those individuals who are most clearly responsible for German aggression and for those acts of barbarism and inhumanity which have disgraced the German conduct of the war must be handed over to justice, which has not been meted out to them at home. That, too, is why Germany must submit for a few years to certain special disabilities and arrangements.

"Germany has ruined the industries, the mines, and the machinery of neighboring countries, not during battle, but with the deliberate and calculated purpose of enabling her own industries to seize their markets before their industries could recover from the devastation thus wantonly inflicted upon them. Germany has depopulated her neighbors of everything she could make use of or carry away. Germany has destroyed the shipping of all nations in the high seas, where there was no chance of rescue for the passengers and crews. It is only justice that restitution should be made, and that these wronged peoples should be safeguarded for a time from the competition of a nation whose industries are intact and have even been fortified by machinery stolen from occupied territories.

"If these things are hardships for Germany, they are hardships which Germany has brought upon herself. Somebody must suffer for the consequences of the war. Is it to be Germany or the peoples she has wronged?

"Not to do justice to all concerned would only leave the world open to fresh calamities. If the German people themselves, or any other nation, are to be deterred from following the footsteps of Prussia, if mankind is to be lifted out of the belief that war for selfish ends is legitimate to any State; if the old era is to be left behind, and nations as well as individuals are to be brought beneath the reign of law, ever there is to be early reconciliation and progress, it will be because these nations, by conducting the war, had the coming to see that justice is not reflected for the sake of a convenient peace.

Declares People Supported War.

"It is said that the German revolution ought to make a difference, and that the German people are not responsible for the policy of the rulers whom they have thrown from power. The Allies are associated to us to receive and welcome this change. It represents great honor for peace and a new European order for the future. But it cannot affect the settlement of the war.

"The German revolution was staged until the German army had been defeated in the field, and all hope of profiting by a war of conquest had vanished. The result of the war, as before the war, the German people and their representatives supported the war, voted the credits, subscribed to the war loans, obeyed every order, however savage, of their Government. They shared the responsibility for the policy of their Government, for at any moment, had they willed it, they could have reversed it.

"That the policy succeeded they would have acclaimed it with the same enthusiasm with which they welcomed the outbreak of the war. They cannot now pretend, having changed their rulers after the war was lost, that it is justice that they should escape the consequences of their deeds.

"The allied and associated powers therefore believe that the peace they have proposed is fundamentally a peace of justice. They are no less certain that it is a peace of right on the terms agreed.

"There can be no doubt as to the intentions of the allied and associated powers to base the settlement of Europe on the principle of freeing oppressed peoples and redrawing national boundaries, as far as possible, in accordance with the will of the peoples concerned, while giving to each the facilities of living and independent national and economic life. These intentions were made clear not only in President Wilson's address to the Congress of the eighth of January, 1918, but in the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses which was the agreed basis of the peace. A memorandum on this point is attached to this letter.

Must Show Fitness for League.

"The allied and associated powers have given careful consideration to the request of the German delegation that Germany should be admitted to the League of Nations as one of the conditions of peace. They are unable to accede to this request. The German revolution was postponed to the last moment of the war, and there is as yet no guarantee that it represents a permanent change.

"In the present temper of international feeling it is impossible to expect the free nations of the world to sit down immediately in equal association with those by whom they have been so grievously wronged. To attempt this too soon would delay and not hasten that process of appeasement which all desire. But the allied and associated powers believe that if the German people prove by their acts that they intend to fulfill the conditions of the peace, and that they have abandoned forever those aggressive and estranging policies which caused the war, and have now become a people with whom it is possible to live in neighborhood good fellowship, the memories of these past years will speedily fade, and it will be possible at an early date to complete the League of Nations by the admission of Germany thereto.

"It is their earnest hope that this may be the case. They believe that the prospects of the world depend upon the close and friendly co-operation of all nations in adjusting international questions and promoting the welfare and progress of mankind but the early entry of Germany into the League must depend principally upon the creation of the German people themselves.

Last Word of the Allies.

"In conclusion, the allied and associated powers must make it clear that this letter and the memorandum attached constitute their last work. They have examined the German observations and counterproposals with earnest attention and care. They have in consequence, made important modifications in the draft treaty, but in its principles they stand by it. "They believe that it is not only a just settlement of the great war, but that it provides the basis upon which the peoples of Europe can live together in friendship and equality. At the same time it creates the machinery for the peaceful adjustment of all international problems by discussion and consent, and whereby the settlement of 1919 itself can be modified from time to time to suit new facts and new conditions as they arise.

"It is frankly not based upon a general condemnation of the events of the 1914-1918 period. It would not be a peace of justice if it were. But it represents a sincere and deliberate attempt to establish that reign of law based upon the consent of the governed, and sustained by the organized opinion of mankind which was the agreed basis of the peace.

"As such, the treaty in its present form must be accepted or rejected. The allied and associated powers therefore require a declaration from the German delegation within five days that they are prepared to sign the treaty as now amended. If they declare within the period that they are prepared to sign the treaty, arrangements will be made for the immediate signature of the peace at Versailles.

"In default of such a declaration, this communication constitutes the notification provided for in Article II of the convention of the 9th of February, 1919, prolonging the armistice signed on Nov. 11th, 1918, and again prolonged by the agreement Dec. 13, 1918, and the 16th of January, 1919. The allied and associated powers will then take such steps as they think needed to force their terms.

Town Council in Session.

Town Council in their meeting on Monday night adopted ordinance to place a light on Peachburg street corner South Washington street, paying Harry McClean $25 for a small piece of land. The alley following most of the way to the corner of all glass. It was agreed that at the July 1st meeting owners would consent to having rights which they should be made.

Mr. Sellers was approached toward a light at entrance to playground.

Report was made that the oil sprinker was in town and that order had been placed for class D oil, 1500 gallons at 125c per gallon and as soon as oil is received it will be placed on streets.

All Vehicles Must Carry Lights.

A new law requiring lights on all vehicles on public roads, except farm machinery and wagons used for hay and straw, between an hour after sunset and an hour before sunrise became effective June 14, through approval by Gov. Sprout. This law is the culmination of twenty years of effort on the part of automobile owners. Under its provision every vehicle except those mentioned must display lights "clearly visible for a distance of at least 200 feet from both the front and the rear of such vehicles." There is also a provision that no vehicle overtaking or meeting a street car that has stopped to take on or discharge passengers shall pass on the side where the door is open or until the car has started and the passenger has reached the curb. Slow-moving and heavily-laden vehicles are required to keep near the right hand curb; a driver overtaken by a vehicle traveling at greater speed must turn to the right, while no vehicle can obstruct traffic or stand in the center of a roadway. Law officers may arrest on view violators of the act, who are made liable to a fine of two to five dollars or go to jail for five days. A law has been approved exempting playgrounds not used for profit from taxation.

FIRST TO WEAR FINGER RING

Legend Makes Prometheus the Pioneer of Custom That May Now Be Called Universal.

The first finger ring is supposed to have been worn by Prometheus, who stole fire from heaven that man might warm himself and cook his food. This act so angered Jupiter that he punished Prometheus by chaining him to a rock. The sentence was carried out, but Prometheus was not ordered that Prometheus wear a link of chain about his finger as a reminder of the punishment. A fragment of the rock to which he had been chained was set in the ring, so that he might still be regarded as being bound to the rock.

The custom of wearing an engagement or wedding ring upon the third finger is due to an ancient belief that a nerve or vein directly connected this finger with the heart, according to a writer in the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Macrobius said: "Because of this nerve the newly betrothed places the ring on this finger of his beloved, as though it were a representation of the heart." And just to show that the practice is a very old one, Macrobius admitted having obtained the facts from an Egyptian priest, thus linking the belief with the dim reaches of the past.

NEAR PUNCTUAL, AS IT WERE

Two Neat Explanations of Train Schedules That Are About the Best of Their Kind.

Railways have had their troubles during these amazing years of world war and continental congestion; so, consequently, have passengers. On a rickety-rackety, half-forgotten little branch line to nowhere in particular, not long ago, a long, lanky, lazy Yankee station master, with an Uncle Sam coat, mentioned those mighty and historic clocks in excuse for the lateness of a certain two-car train, for which an impatient salesman of cardinal blue pants was waiting.
But although he offered an excuse, he did not excuse himself, and concluded his remarks by announcing resolutely:

"Still he is before long, and before long oughter be soon enough for reasonable folks. Ef she's in 'at now-days she'd oughter be chawed, and no feller with a grain of common sense nor patience has any call to grout of she's 'therabouts."

In the antebellum South a world war is not necessary to evoke an even greater superiority to petty uncertainties of time. The colored man in charge of a southern waiting room, in a place by no means a village, was heard explaining the local electric car connections with the nearest city.

"Cars run on de hour, gentlemen," he told two inquirers, with a beaming smile; and added confidentially, "Cose dey's times tain't on de hour jes' perzactly to de minute. Sometimes dey starts a HT bit after, and sometimes, wen dey's a hot box, dey's so much after dey's de same as a HT bit before; but mos' generally, gentlemen, dey gits away jes' about."

MORE LIKE GODS THAN TREES

Impressive Tribute Paid by English Feet to the Giant Redwoods of California.

John Macdonald, the English footballer, has paid a tribute to the giant redwoods of California to the effect that they are more like gods than trees. He said that he had seen a number of them and that they were not like trees; they are like gods. The places in which they grow are like places; they are like haunts of centaurs or of the gods. The trees rise up with dignity, power and majesty, as though they had been there forever. They are the oldest living things. Even the young ones were two thousand or three thousand years old, and many of these grew from the visible ruins of others, which may have been saplings seven thousand years ago. Sometimes in cathedrals one feels the awe and the majesty of columns. These columns were more impressive than anything of stone; these columns were alive. They were more like gods than anything I have ever seen. They seemed to be thinking. One felt that presently they would march to wipe out everything mean or base or petty here on earth.
The stars shone about their heads like chaplets.

Kisses and Beards.

It is so easy to understand what the Americans say, because they talk so loud—it is not the same loudness as of the French, and one day I have laughed to hear in a bus how girls of the Y. M. C. A. have talked. There was one who was not at all pretty, except to be young, who has regarded a French gentleman who wore his beard long. "Look," she said, "what a horrible beard. Imagine to be kissed by any one like that. Then they have both laughed.

The other one has said then: "I suppose his grandfather wore his beard long, so he does the same," and the first one has replied: "Yes, it is always like that. What was good enough for your grandfather in France is good enough for you."

I was not angry to hear them speak so, because, you know, they were very ignorant. For me I do not think that they have known very much the emotion of to be kissed, or they would have understood that it is not whether or not one has a beard that makes the difference.—London Bystander's Paris Letter.

Why He Doesn't Hear It.

"This is the fourth morning you've been late, Rufus," said the man to his colored chauffeur.

"Yes, sah," replied Rufus. "I did ovahsleep myself, sah."

"Where's that clock I gave you?"

"In m' room, sah."

"Don't you wind it up?"

"Oh, yes, sah. I winds it up, sah."

"And do you set the alarm?"

"E'ry night, sah, I set de alarm, sah."

"But don't you hear the alarm in the morning, Rufus?"

"No, sah. Dere's de trouble, sah.

Yer see, de blame thing goes off while I'm in de room—Yer see, sah."

—Youth's Companion.

Whereupon his grief-stricken bride-elect declared that she would never marry any one else, but would devote herself as a widow for the rest of her life to the family of her husband. In order to do this, however, it was necessary that she should legally belong to the family, and so the strange ceremony with the vase was gone through with to enable her to become a member of the family. Since then it has been suggested that an arch should be built in the city in order to congratulate the young couple on the young girl to her husband she had married.

China Market for Hats.

Men who have wondered what becomes of the large stocks of hats, caps and clothing that remain unsold at the close of each season in this country will be interested to learn that a considerable portion of such stock is disposed of in China, where the men are adopting the dress of their western brothers. The rising generation of Chinese is particularly keen for headgear worn in America, but the styles seen there are always those that were in vogue in this country the year before.

BELOVED OF TOBACCO USERS

In Meerschaum, Smokers Acknowledge

That One Good Thing Has Come

Out of Turkey.

Eski Scheir, in Asiatic Turkey, has one unique claim upon public interest, and if one is a smoker that claim is a compelling one. It is the home of meerschaum. Meerschaum in abundance is found only on the plain of Eski Scheir, and this city produces all the marketable meerschaum in the world.

Meerschaum, as its name implies, is supposed to be petrified seafoam, and has been discovered floating on the Black sea. Apart from the Eski Scheir mines it occurs in Greece, Samoa,

Spain, Moravia, Utah, Pennsylvania, and, in conjunction with serpentine, in Norway and South Carolina.

The ancients are said to have used it as a decorative stone in buildings, and this seems to have been confirmed by the recent excavations in Corfu. It is soft and whitish, and becomes malleable like clay when soaked in water.

Meerschaum used to be considered a mere curiosity by the Turks, who had no other use for it than as a substitute for fuller's soap. The story runs that the Turkish ambassador at the Austrian court, in the eighteenth century, was a native of Eski Scheir.

Wanting to help his city at a time of great poverty, he took a sample of this queer stuff to Vienna, thinking that the "Franks," as all foreigners were then called, might have some use for it. The Germans were quick to see its utility for pipe bowls, but declared it was good for nothing else.

More than a century has confirmed this judgment, for who has yet discovered any other use for meerschaum?

For pipe making it is an ideal raw material. Here is a stone which is easily molded when wet, and when dry becomes hard and resists fire.

POPULAR DAUGHTER OF PROMINENT CHINESE

Official Is Married to Large

Red Vase.

Not long ago considerable commotion was caused in the Chinese city of Hankow when the attractive and popular daughter of a prominent Chinese official was married with great pomp and ceremony to a large red vase which was supposed to represent a deceased bridegroom who had died a few years before his marriage.
